BUSINESS IS SO GOOD AT LIBRARY IT'S A PROBLEM

"Business" is so good with the Adams County Free Library that it's rapidly changing a chronic case of "more books needed" to an acute one.

Reports presented at the June meeting of the library board of directors Friday evening showed that circulation figures are soaring to levels nearly double those of a few years ago—but the problem that attends such heavy circulation is that of replacing books that are costing more and wearing out more quickly because of their greater use.

"With our volume of loans so high, the books are wearing out faster," said Mrs. Mary S. Wilson, county librarian, "and we're simply got to find ways to get more money for more books—especially those for young readers. We can't keep up this pace of book loans or hope to increase it without a substantial supply of replacements and new books."

19,399 Loans In Month
There was a meeting of the Finance Committee after the general board meeting with the annual appeal for funds throughout the county in the fall as one of the subjects for consideration.

Mrs. Wilson's report for May showed a total circulation of 19,399, nearly 1,500 more than for any previous month in the library's eight-year history. In April the total was 17,787 and in May of last year the figure was 14,590. May was the final month for school circulation until fall and saw 17,885 loans to juvenile readers. Circulation for branches, book stations throughout the county and circulation at the main library (Continued on Page 8)

Here And There News Collected At Random

Sunday night's program in the weekly series, "I Was a Communist for the FBI," tells the story of "The Pit Vipers." Dana Andrews takes the part of Matt Cvetich, an FBI undercover agent who was assigned by the Communists to encourage riots among a group of striking miners. It is another Red plot to spread corruption and discontent among the workers.

The story reveals that while driving with Comrade Simon to Kirkton, the scene of a mining strike, Matt has car trouble and stops at a nearby house for aid. Here he meets Utko, an elderly miner, and his daughter-in-law, Elsa. Utko is involved in the present mine trouble but because his son had been killed in a previous strike riot, he will have nothing to do with violence. While visiting the pickets, Simon and Matt find that Utko's influence on his co-workers is interfering with their plans to prevent a strike settlement. Simon decides that Utko must meet with an "accident" and though Matt tries to discourage him, Simon works too quickly and Utko is found badly beaten. Suspecting Matt's concern for the older man, Simon accuses Matt of being unfaithful to the cause. (Continued on Page 5)

TRUCE NEGOTIATORS MEET IN TIGHT SECRET; HOPES PERSIST

By Robert B. Tuckman
PANMUNJOM (P)—Allied Communist negotiators met in tight secrecy for 19 minutes today as mushrooming reports of near agreement on the key issue of prisoner exchange bolstered hopes for an armistice in Korea.

There was no official hint of what went on inside the conference hut, but an authoritative South Korean source said, "No new proposal was made by either side." The Reds asked for and got a recess until 11 a.m. tomorrow (p.m. EST Saturday). The South Korean source indicated—without elaboration—that progress might be made then.

He described the atmosphere inside the conference hut today as businesslike—"neither good nor bad."

Other observers said the U. N. Command probably asked for clarification of an hour-long statement read Thursday by North Korean Gen. Nam Il.

This was reported to have been a counter-proposal virtually paraphrasing the latest U. N. plan for breaking the long prisoners exchanged deadlock, last major barrier to a Korean truce. The Reds were said to have suggested five changes, none of them major.

MOTHER OF TEN ADDRESSES DAR GROUP FRIDAY

Mrs. Emma Campbell Cocklin, Dillsburg R. 3, who was chosen as "Pennsylvania Mother of 1948," declared that "desire, courage, strength, knowledge and enthusiasm are the factors which add up to a good mother," at a meeting of the Gettysburg Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the home of the Misses Sue Ella and Lela Harper, Arendtsville.

The speaker, mother of 10 children, seven of whom served in the U. S. Army during World War II, brought greetings from the Carlisle Chapter of which she is a member. A daughter of the late Dr. E. E. Campbell, former president of Irving College, Mechanicsburg, she quoted the following ancient Chinese proverb which implies that a harmonious home ultimately leads to peace in the world:

"If there is righteousness in the heart, there will be beauty in character; if there is beauty in the character, there will be harmony in the home; if there is harmony in the home, there will be order in the nation; if there is order in the nation, there will be peace in the world."

"Mothers Of Men"
Mrs. Cocklin based her talk on Dr. Daniel A. Poling's "Mothers Of Men," article written for the American Mothers Committee of the Golden Rule Foundation in which he states that "woman's sphere is the home but not the home of yesterday — the home as it is today. Yesterday the home and its responsibilities were contained within the pioneer settler's cabin and its environs. Mother made the bread that filled her sons and daughters, and shaped the garments they wore. Food came from the immediately surrounding acres.

"And the early homes of America were all within sight of, or little more than a loud call from the red schoolhouse on the hill. The church, too, was always near. Life was intimate."

"Today the four posts of the home are the four corners of the earth. Mother's sphere is still the home, but if she is to administer its functions and serve its needs with the same fidelity as those faithful ones who went before her, she must now enter constructively every field of human activity and accept responsibilities and opportunities in all areas of modern life."

Mrs. Cocklin quoted Joachim Miller, the poet:

"The greatest battle that ever was fought,
Shall I tell you where and when?
On the maps of the world you will find it neught,
'Twas fought by the mothers of men."

IMPORTANCE OF U. N. CONTROL IN KOREA CITED BY ARMY OFFICER

The importance of the United Nations retaining control of Korea and her people was the theme of the address delivered Friday evening by Brig. Gen. A. Robert Ginsburgh, USAF, to members of the Gettysburg College alumni group and their guests at the annual Council dinner held in Huber Hall.

The dinner officially launched the Commencement weekend activities on the campus. Approximately 285 were in attendance when Alumni Association President John A. Apple introduced President Walter C. Langsam who extended college greetings. Mr. Apple presented Henry M. Scharf, chairman of the Alumni Days committee, who introduced General Ginsburgh.

Reviewing the history of Korea and her people as a background setting for his discussion of the current problems of the Korean war, General Ginsburgh related some of his personal experiences in that country and pointed out that too many people in the United States did not realize how vital the Korean peninsula had been in world development for the past one hundred years.

Fifth Issue In Korea

"This is the fifth time in the past 80 years we have been directly or indirectly involved in conflict in Korea," he said. "That country is very important strategically because of its location, with Siberia on the north, China on the west, Japan on the east and Manchuria behind her. One of the most important problems Russia has faced in her attempts for expansion is that of obtaining a warm weather port and Korea would afford just that."

"It was of vital importance that Russia not get control of Korea, for if she had she would literally have possessed a 'dagger of war' to point at the rest of the world, aimed through Asia and the Pacific areas."

Two Good Armies

"Though the Communist army in Korea is not as good as that of the United Nations, they are a strong army, make no mistake about that," General Ginsburgh said. "They are well equipped, well fed, well disciplined and not afraid to die, and they are improving fast with the help Russia is giving them. The (Continued on Page 2)

Address At Yale U.

An address on the history of the Lutheran Church was given by Dr. Abdel Ross Wentz, professor of church history at the Gettysburg Lutheran Theological Seminary and former seminary president, at the celebration of the first ordination of a Lutheran minister in the records of American Church History at Yale University Wednesday.

The observance was held in Battell Chapel at the university in New Haven, Conn. The procession of 200 robed Lutheran clergymen included the pastors of six of the seven surviving Hudson Valley congregations founded by the Rev. Justus Falckner in the two decades of his ministry before his death in 1732. He served at least 14 churches, most of which he himself helped organize.

On exhibit in the chapel was Rev. Falckner's original ordination certificate, rediscovered in New York City in 1925 after being lost for over two centuries. Women cleaning at St. James Lutheran Church, New York City, found it among rubbish in a drawer. It was turned over to the pastor, who forwarded it to the Lutheran Historical Society in Gettysburg.

United Nations Army is an excellent one, undoubtedly one of the best ever put together. It is composed of representative fighting men from 22 nations of the 60 member nations of the UN. They are equipped with the most modern fighting devices and they are expertly trained in handling their equipment.

General Ginsburgh then reviewed the number of casualties suffered by the UN Forces in the war and pointed out that despite the bitter fighting that has been going on, these losses had been kept at a minimum. "Much of this is due to the high speed employed in giving aid to the wounded," he pointed out. "New drugs and equipment, blood banks and better methods are responsible for most of the improvement. In World War II, for example, it took from 2 to 4 hours to get a wounded man back from the front lines to a hospital. Now the wounded man gets emergency treatment in the lines immediately, he is picked up by helicopter and if necessary is given a blood transfusion in the air. Upon landing he is placed in an ambulance immediately and rushed to a hospital and the total time from the front lines to the hospital is 30 minutes.

135,000 Casualties
"Of the approximately 135,000 casualties suffered, 105,000 were by the Army, 27,000 by the Marines, 2,000 by the Navy and 1,500 by the Air Force. Because the Korean War has been principally one on the ground, the Army and the Marines have experienced the heaviest losses."

General Ginsburgh detailed the "outstanding job" the Air Force has done in supporting the ground troops and praised the Naval Forces for their job of moving equipment to the troops.

"It is difficult to grasp the immensity of the amount of equipment which is necessary to supply our troops in Korea," he continued. "Experience has proved that it takes approximately 500 tons of cargo to get a fighting man to the Korean front and approximately one ton per month to keep him there. Last year the port of Pusan handled more cargo than the port of New York. The Pusan total tonnage was approximately 90,800,000 tons as compared to New York's 14,700,000 tons."

Comparing the Air Forces of the UN and the Communists, he explained that though the MIG-15 is an excellent plane, the F-86's record shows it far superior. To date the F-86s lost totals 56, while a total of 690 MIG-15s have been destroyed. "This total might have been even more in our favor," he said, "except that our Air Force must operate over a much larger area and must carry more fuel to do this."

"To those who question whether the Korean War has been worth it or not there is only the answer that Communist expansion had to be halted somewhere and Korea seems to be a logical area of decision."

"In answer to the question of 'when will it end,' I'm not sure that there is an answer at present. And even if the Korean conflict were ended, there is no guarantee that it will not spring up again in another location. One thing is positive, however, and that is that we should never make the mistake of disarming again as we did in 1945," he said.

"Possibly the situation can be summed up in a quotation made in Europe 100 years ago," he concluded. "That quotation was that 'The Russian bear is an animal capable of anything as long as other animals are capable of nothing.' That statement was made by Karl Marx. That is why it is vitally important that we be something."

Guests of honor introduced by President Apple included C. Paul Cessna, Alumni secretary; Jerry Hoch, vice president of the Council; Henry M. Scharf, chairman of Alumni Day's committee; Mrs. Julia Langsam, Mrs. Ginsburgh, Mrs. Scharf, Judge Hiram Keller, acting president of the college Board of Trustees; and Dr. John Aberly, Class of 1888.

"RECALLING HAPPINESS"

When recalling happy moments... what are things that they embrace... are they time when we knew riches... are they just commonplace... are they moments spent in splendor... or just fishing by a stream... were they periods of passion... that fulfilled our times when we knew greatest dream... were they golden days of childhood... or perhaps just yesterday... when the world seemed so much lighter... free of hate and sad dismay... maybe they were times of sorrow... that we managed to see through... till the heartaches that we harbored... faded softly in the blue... what they were it doesn't matter... but somehow they always bring... a warm and tender feeling... that is like eternal spring.

Emmitsburg TO MAN POST ON VFW HOME AGAIN

Plans were made Wednesday evening by the Emmitsburg VFW Post at its monthly meeting to reactivate the ground observation post located at the VFW home. Lieutenant Bonney of the GOC Filter Center was a guest at the meeting and discussed the necessity of an efficient ground observer program in this locality. Films illustrating the needs of this program were shown to the group. Everett Chrismier was named chief observer for the Emmitsburg area and is now seeking volunteers to man the station. Anyone interested in helping the GOC should contact either Mr. Chrismier or Lumen F. Norris, post adjutant.

The post announced the Memorial Playground at Community Field will open for the summer season on Monday. It will be open daily from 9 to 11 a.m. and from 2 to 5 p.m. under the direction of Mrs. Mary Rohrbach.

Harold M. Hoke, chairman of the Block Party, reported on the progress of the committee to date. The affair, as a benefit for the ambulance maintenance fund, will be held June 25-27 on DePaul St.

BROWN ROT IN PEACHES HEAVY, HARTMAN SAYS

Wet weather during bloom has caused more brown rot blossom blight to develop in the peach orchards of the county than has occurred in several years. County Agent M. T. Hartman said today in sending letters for the second cover spray in peaches and the third cover spray in apples to the county's fruit growers.

Recommended spray for peach is six pounds of dry wettable sulphur per 100 gallons of dilute spray. The amount of sulphur should be tripled for concentrate sprays. The spray should be applied from 16 to 18 days after the first cover, Hartman said.

Codling Moth Emerging
In the apple orchards codling moth adults are still emerging and worms are entering the fruit, the county agent reported. Leaf roller larvae and a few other chewing insects have been found in some orchards. Mites are present in most orchards where no miticides have been used. Locusts are abundant in many orchards. The wet weather has been favorable for the development of scab, frog-eye leaf spot, rust and Brooks' spot.

Where codling moth is the major problem, Hartman recommends use of two pounds of 50 per cent wettable powder DDT plus 1½ to two pounds of Ferbam per 100 gallons of spray. Where mites and leaf roller are the problem, one pound of 50 per cent DDT, plus one pound of 15 per cent wettable powder Parathion or EPN 300 should be used together with the Ferbam. Or five pounds of phenol lead can be used alone per 100 gallons of spray both fungicide and insecticide. The amounts of materials in all cases should be tripled for concentrate sprays. To kill 17 year locust six ounces of 40 per cent TEPP in dilute spray or 18 ounces in concentrate may be used with any of the other spray materials.

New Oxford

NEW OXFORD — Mrs. William Bennett, Hanover, formerly Miss Evelyn M. Todd, R. 2, has been a patient at the Hanover Hospital.

In addition to the monthly First Friday devotionals at the local Catholic church Friday, another devotion there that day was in connection with the graduation of a class of eighth graders from the parochial school, when the service included the singing of a special hymn, the awarding of the diplomas, a sermon to the class by the Rev. Philip J. Gergen, pastor, and Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament. After the conclusion of the graduation service, summer vacation began for the parochial pupils.

The Rev. Howard E. Sheely, pastor of Trinity Reformed Church, Hanover, and an earlier pastor of St. Paul's Reformed Church here, received a Doctor of Divinity degree during the past week at commencement exercises at Ursinus College, Collegeville.

Men of the St. Vincent dePaul Society of the local Catholic parish, caring for the relief of the needy of this area, have made it known that the names of any destitute or unfortunate persons in need of aid are to be placed in the poor-box in the church vestibule. The men will start to work on any such case immediately after being so notified.

During the coming summer months, weekly devotional meetings of the Blessed Virgin Sodality of the local Catholic parish will not be conducted, although the Sodality will continue to attend Mass and receive Holy Communion in a body on the first Sunday of the three summer months.

EXAMPLE

His neighbor made a garden and the tulips came to bloom. And seeing them, for tulips he discovered he had room. He dug a space to plant them, and the following spring to view. Instead of one gay garden in that neighborhood were two.

With two gardens for examples, to another it occurred. Since his ground seemed bare and shabby, he could make of it the third. So it went from door to doorway, until all along the way. Had spring and summer blossoms in their gardens to display.

Just one little touch of beauty! Oh, how often this is proved. To repeat it and possess it all who see it may be moved. All along that little roadway in the springtime tulips grew. Showing what one good example to a city street can do.

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

AN IMMORTAL BOOK

I never tire of telling people about a little book that first came to my attention through a lover of books whom I once visited in Cleveland. Its title is "The Roadmender," by Michael Fairless. It was written by a young woman dying of consumption, and was not published until after her death, but by it she still lives!

Few books have so influenced my thought and life. The author wrote under a man's name, her own name being Margaret Fairless Barber. It was first published in 1901 and so greatly did I love this book that I have over the years bought every edition I have discovered, and there have been a score or so. After fifty years it still sells, and, I hope, always will.

Over twenty years ago J. Ramsay MacDonald, Prime Minister of England at that time, in a speech at City Hall in New York City, just before going home, spoke feelingly of this remarkable book as follows:

"I am sure that many of you have come under that genial spell of Michael Fairless's book 'The Roadmender.' Ah, in the large and the high and the public ways of life, if one could give service in roadmending as this humble hero of Michael Fairless's book gave in the ordinary ways of the making of roads! Roadmenders, you and I together, opening out the ways for human feet and human aspirations through the coming generations, on and on and on; roadmenders, so that when our children grow up, and our grandchildren grow up and have to face the world, at any rate there will be one road clear, unimpeded, stretching right to the horizon, the road to peace and the road to international understanding inviting their feet to walk upon it. This is in my heart; that is all I want to do. I pray for your prayers that it may succeed."

Over half a million copies of this little book have been sold in England and thousands of them in Canada and the United States. Once read it will remain in spirit with you for so long as you live. It truly is an immortal book!

ACTOR TO PAY $1,100 A MONTH

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Film star John Wayne's estranged wife, who says she needs $9,350 monthly to live in the style to which she's accustomed, will have to do with about one-ninth of that—$1,100 a month.

The former Esperanza Bauer, 30, ex-actress in Mexican movies, bit her lip and blushed as the judge read his decision Thursday after a 15-day temporary alimony hearing.

Wayne, 44-year-old boxoffice favorite, grinned. Teenagers packing the courtroom applauded and, with secretaries and stenographers taking a few minutes away from their desks in the hall of records, mobbed him in the hall.

Leaves For Mexico
Wayne said he would leave by plane Friday for Mexico to start co-producing a movie after $40,000 worth of delays occasioned by the hearing.

The judge restrained both Wayne and his wife from molesting, harassing, contacting or threatening each other pending the trial.

"From the fact that this preliminary hearing took 15 days," Judge William R. McKay observed, "it can be surmised that the trial may be a very long one."

Red General In Berlin Is Relieved

BERLIN (AP)—The official East German news agency announced Friday that Gen. Vassily Chuikov, top Russian in Germany since 1949, was being relieved of duty here and would return to the Soviet Union for a new assignment.

The terse announcement also said that Col. Gen. Andrei A. Gretscho has been appointed to command the 300,000 man Red Army in East Germany.

Chuikov was relieved of his political responsibilities on May 28 with the appointment of Vladimir Semenov as high commissioner for the Soviet zone.

Chuikov, hero of Stalingrad, had held down two jobs here, as political head of the Control Commission and as commander in chief of the troops.

'OPERATION YES' IS SUGGESTED

WASHINGTON (AP)—Reps. Leo O'Brien (D-NY) and Carrigg (R-Pa) produced Friday what they consider the answer to Communist "brainwashings" of captured American GIs in Korea.

It's called "Operation Yes" and is designed to destroy one of the Reds' propaganda weapons and make them look ridiculous.

O'Brien and Carrigg have drafted identical bills for introduction in the House next week to put it into effect.

Their proposals would request the President to direct all fighting men to agree if taken prisoner, to any and all propaganda suggestions advanced by their captors—with tongue in cheek, of course.

"It all adds up to a horse laugh for the Communists, and the elimination of any possible stigma which could attach to any GI victim," O'Brien said. "Everyone would know they are just following orders."

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in the Knights of Columbus Hall in McSherrytown. The bride cut a three-tiered wedding cake with a miniature bride and groom on top. Afterwards the couple left on a week's honeymoon in the Poconos. The bride wore a light blue linen suit with navy accessories and a white orchid corsage. Mrs. Eline will make her home for the present with her parents. Her husband is stationed with the U. S. Army at Fort Eustis, Va. The bride, a graduate of the Delone Catholic High School in the class of 1951, is employed in the office of Eddie's Laundry, Gettysburg. Her husband was graduated from Delone in 1949.

Spahn And Sain, Twirlers For Champion Braves In '48, Are Separated But Going Strong

By BEN PHLEGAR
A. P. Sports Writer

Back in 1948 the Boston Braves won the National League pennant with a pitching staff of "Spahn, Sain and two days rain." Five years later that staff would still bring a fortune on the open market.

The S-S men are split up now. Johnny Sain working for the New York Yankees and Warren Spahn still with the Braves but calling Milwaukee instead of Boston home.

Although on the shady side of 30, both are having great years.

Sixth For Sain
Sain, the busiest pitcher on the Yankee staff, picked up his sixth victory and his first shutout last night against the St. Louis Browns, 5-0.

Spahn, apparently as good as new after an early season injury, also won his sixth game last night, an 11-inning struggle over the Philadelphia Phillies in which he gave up only five hits.

Sain's victory extended the Yankees' winning string to eight their longest in two years. Spahn's success kept the Braves half a game ahead of the Brooklyn Dodgers, who outlasted the St. Louis Cardinals, 5-4.

Cubs Still Losing
The revamped Chicago Cubs continued to lose, dropping an 11-1 verdict to the New York Giants and Cincinnati defeated Pittsburgh, 7-4, with Gus Bell hitting a pair of homers.

Cleveland hung 5½ games back of the Yankees with a 10-inning 3-2 squeaker over Philadelphia while Washington took third place away from the Chicago White Sox with an 8-4 victory featuring a grand slam home run by Wayne Williams.

Rain in the third inning washed out Boston's game at Detroit with the Tigers leading, 1-0. All of the games were played at night.

party. Elsa comes to Matt's aid by lying for him and saying that Matt had convinced Utkie to lead the others in a riot, thereby clearing Simon's suspicions. To avoid further trouble the miners return to work. Utkie's condition improves and Matt claims a "silent" victory over the "Pit Vipers."

It makes good listening.

At first, it looked as if a big railroad were going out of business.

The story led off with the stark fact that the Eastern Railroad and its 65 locomotives, 500 freight and 150 passenger cars had been ordered to liquidate. The railway had to get out of the way of a new highway.

But it turned out, the Eastern Railroad Presidents Conference reports, that the "Eastern Railroad" was only a model railroad—though an extraordinary one. It was being evicted from its quarters in the old unused station in Pelham Manor, N. Y.

The station, it seems, was standing smack in the middle of the proposed New England Thruway.

The "Eastern Railroad" owns 3,800 feet of track and 12 stations and had been housed in the Pelham Manor station since 1936. Equipment is sealed at one-fourth inch to the foot.

Cardoni Wins His Third For Miners

By The Associated Press

Ben Cardoni, the Scranton Miners' hefty right-hander, breezed by the Reading Indians, 9-1, last night for his third victory in a row since the Albany Senators traded him away.

The Senators could have used him. They worked four pitchers, but lost, 3-2, to the visiting Elmira Pioneers.

In other Eastern League games the Wilkes-Barre Barons beat the Williamsport Athletics, 7-5, and the Schenectady Blue Jays snapped the Binghamton Triplets' winning streak at nine with a 3-2 triumph.

BISHOP OXNAM WOULD TESTIFY

WESTMINSTER, Md. (AP)—Methodist Bishop G. Bromley Oxnam has asked to appear before a House committee to answer charges linking him with Communist-front groups.

With angered church members rallied behind him, the Bishop made the request last night in a telegram to Rep. Harold H. Velde (R-Ill.), chairman of the House Un-American Activities Committee.

It culminated a heated verbal exchange between members of the Baltimore Conference of the Methodist Church, in session here, and Rep. Jackson (R-Calif.), a member of the committee.

The Bishop, who says the committee's files connect him with organizations to which he never belonged and others he left before their loyalty was questioned, has denounced the committee's staff as incompetent.

BALL IS ON THE EYE
SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Police Sgt. Henry E. Kolar, who coaches baseball as a hobby, warned the youngsters to "keep your eye on the ball." But Kolar forgot momentarily and the ball, hurled by a somewhat inaccurate pitcher, hit him in the left eye and gave him a beautiful "shiner." Kolar said he would give some pitching instructions to the errant marksman—his own 12-year old son, Robert.

GOP NINE LOSES ANNUAL GAME

WASHINGTON (AP)—Dwight D. Eisenhower, who led the Republicans to victory last November, presided over a GOP defeat last night.

With the Chief Executive looking on, after throwing out the first ball, Republican members of Congress lost to the Democrats 3-2 in an uproarious five inning benefit baseball game in Griffith Stadium.

GOP pitcher Glenn Davis of Wisconsin had the Democrats well in hand, 2-0, until the fatal fifth. The Democrats pushed across two runs and then, with the score tied, Davis walked Rep. Mendel Rivers of South Carolina to fill the bases. He hit the next batter, Rep. Hugh Addison of New Jersey, on the hand to force in the winning run.

Davis allowed only three hits. Rep. Don Wheeler of Georgia, pitching for the Democrats, was nicked for four. Charitably, nobody kept track of the errors.

A crowd of 4,609 saw the game. Eisenhower, hatless and wearing a dark summer suit, seemed to have a fine time.

YANK RESCUES BRITISH PILOT

SEOUL, (AP)—The British pilot of a crippled Sabre jet who parachuted into sea of Korea's west coast owes his life today to the navigator of a rescue plane who leaped into the water and pulled him to safety.

The Air Force identified the heroic navigator as Lt. Robert Smother of San Marino, Calif.

The pilot he rescued is Flight Lt. James A. Ryan of Lancashire, England, a Royal Canadian Air Force exchange pilot.

Ryan bailed out Friday less than 1,000 yards off the red-held Chongchon River delta after the engine of his Sabre "seemed to explode." Big swells carried him nearly a mile into the river mouth.

An SA 16 amphibious rescue plane landed safely despite the swells, but two attempts to reach Ryan with rescue lines failed. Each time he drifted out of reach.

Finally, the Air Force said, Smother dove into the water and towed Ryan 25 yards to the waiting plane.

Members of the rescue crew included 2nd Lt. Chilton W. Smith, Jr., of Williamsburg, Pa., a second navigator.

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A Michigan State freshman and a faculty member each won 1953 National AAU wrestling championships. Frosh Jimmy Sinadinos won the 136-pound crown. Physical education instructor Dale Thomas won his fourth NAAU title in the 191 pound class.

PHILADELPHIA — When Larry Jansen, right-hander for the Giants, won the opening game of the season over the Phillies it was his 100th complete game in the majors. Larry went all the way in the 4-1 triumph. The victory was his second in five opening starts for the Giants.

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP) — Two large tankers, one loaded with gasoline and the other empty, collided, exploded and burst into flames today with one man dead, three missing and 82 survivors.

The 11,081 ton tanker Pan Massachusetts and the second largest tanker in the world, the Phoenix, both owned by National Bulk of New York, collided in the Delaware River opposite Elsinboro Point, N. J., 40 miles from Philadelphia. Members of the crews from the ships were hurled into the water.

Seventy-two of the survivors were taken to Delaware Hospital here with five others being treated at Salem, N. J., Hospital on the New Jersey side of the river. The Pan Massachusetts, headed for Philadelphia with a full load of gasoline, hit the Phoenix amidship, splitting her in two.

The Red Cross listed Joseph Donnelly, 45, of 22 O'Market St., Marcus Hook, Pa., as the only man known dead. He was a crewman on the Tanker Phoenix making his first trip.

Both Total Loss
Capt. Reginald C. Gross, 53, Houston, Tex., of the Pan Massachusetts, said both ships were a total loss. He said his ship was "on fire all over." The Phoenix was standing on end. The Phoenix, once the largest tanker in the world, had a capacity of 217,795 barrels of oil, more than nine million gallons. It was empty, having just unloaded a cargo at the Sinclair refinery, Marcus Hook, Pa., and was headed for Houston, Tex.

ARREST OFFICER FOR ORDERING KOREAN'S DEATH

By FORREST EDWARDS

TAEJU, Korea, Saturday (AP) — An Air Force officer was arrested today and accused of ordering two enlisted men to shoot a Korean at an Allied air base in South Korea last September.

Col. Jerome L. Loewenberg, Fifth Air Force judge advocate, said Lt. George C. Schreiber, 25, was arrested at an air base near Pusan and charged with premeditated murder and conspiracy to commit premeditated murder.

Records in Loewenberg's office showed that Schreiber had entered the service at Chicago.

3rd Man Arrested
He was the third man arrested in the case.

The other two, arrested in the United States and returned to Korea for future trial, are Robert W. Toth, 21, a discharged airman who was back in Korea five days after his arrest at a Pittsburgh steel plant May 13, and Airman First Class Thomas L. Kinder, 21, arrested at a Wisconsin air base March 10 and returned to Korea May 26.

Toth and Kinder are charged with premeditated murder and conspiracy to commit premeditated murder. Toth, in addition, is charged with assault with intent to do great bodily harm.

Pistol Whipped And Shot
Loewenberg said Schreiber allegedly ordered the shooting of Bang Soon Kil last Sept. 27 after Bang was apprehended by Kinder in a restricted area on an air base near Pusan, pistol whipped by Toth and taken to Schreiber.

After the alleged order from Schreiber, Loewenberg said, Toth allegedly selected an empty revolver on the base for the shooting and Kinder allegedly did the actual shooting.

JACOBS AMONG TOP TEN
NEW YORK (AP) — Although trainer Hirsch Jacobs has not topped the list for the past eight years he still remains among the top ten in his field. Jacobs has not appeared at the top of the list since 1944. During that time, however, he has won 650 races.

Robert H. McDaniel, currently the leading trainer, has been at the top of the list for the past three years.

Two winning streaks remained intact as the league-leading Moose edged the Glenn L. Bream garage-men 7-6 and the Lentz Legion topped the Elks 10-3 in Softball League games Friday evening.

The first protested game of the season resulted in the second game when the garagemen lodged a complaint about an interference ruling which permitted a runner to score during the three-run uprising by the Moose which won the game in the last of the sixth inning. Max Sherman, Moose outfielder, was forced out of action in the fourth inning when he sprained his right ankle sliding into second base. The garagemen hit their opponents 11-6 but were victims of some shoddy fielding.

In the opening game the hard-hitting Lentz Legion team copped its third in a row by routing the Elks 10-3. Jack Ridinger pounded out five hits, including a triple, to lead the Legionnaires to victory. Five runs in the first inning enabled the Legion to lead the remainder of the way. Carbaugh secured two of the Elks' four hits.

Riding with Russell

by FREDERICK C. RUSSELL
Member S. A. E.

What we need now is installment buying without the handicap of installment paying.

Not What It Seems
Among the fictions that should be debunked in motordom is the assumption that a car bought from a friend, or from an estate, must of necessity be a good buy. Rarely is it true that a car has received as much service as it should have. Very often the owner who seems to be so meticulous is merely fussy about the car's appearance, neglecting the essentials.

Sometimes while the original owner has bought sufficient service to indicate his good intentions his driving may have been especially detrimental to the car. There are the people who always start in the higher gears with cars equipped with semi-automatic transmissions. There are those who like to show off the car in front of the house and then put it in the garage late at night, giving the engine a fine dosing of raw gasoline to wash the oil off its cylinder walls.

You can't run the car efficiently and successfully on the original owner's good reputation or good intentions — only on the facts in the case. The direct sale has broken up many a friendship, too.

Pivoting Wears Them

It is always easy to dismiss the spotty wear on front tires as being due to underinflation, but this diagnosis is usually a trap. If the front tires are underinflated the rear ones probably will also be operating at too low pressure, and why are they also not worn spottily? Well to the top of the possibilities of such wear on the front tires is lack of balance. What happens is that the tires get to dancing, and then they pivot. Rear wheels may dance but they can't pivot.

Those noisy hydraulic valve lifters may indicate air in the oiling system, not dirt. One way to double check this is to note if the noise is from more than one lifter. Air affects the lifters in multiple, not single. An air leak around the oil pump intake is one way for this trouble to start, and this easily explains why fast driving so often is no aid to lifter improvement. An over-supply from crankcase dilution, or leakage of water into the oil, may result in foaming.

Mechanic Joe Speaking:
"Checking the amount of play or slack in the steering wheel is something that requires the services of an assistant. It is not enough to sit at the wheel and tug at it until the front wheels start to pivot. This will give you an exaggerated idea of the distance the steering wheel moves (measured at its rim) before you get front-wheel movement, because the wheels actually will pivot a little before you actually are aware of it. Have someone hold his hand on one of the front tires so as to be able to feel this movement and report it to you immediately. The steering wheel rim should not move more than two inches before there is this sense of movement of the front wheels."

Opens The Treads
It's an old trick but many drivers forget that if there are pebbles caught in the tire treads the quickest way to get rid of them is to go around a sharp corner. Pebbles usually will fly out of the treads when the car gets up to road speed, but if this kind of driving isn't convenient at the time any street corner will serve to get rid of the annoyance.

It isn't generally appreciated but one reason so many batteries go bad these days is simply because cars are not equipped with a hand control of the throttle. This makes it more trouble to fast idle the engine to put the battery on charge. You can, of course, hold the accelerator pedal down with a stick braced against the seat cushion, or lean a book against it, but these are makeshifts and it is quite a trick not only to set the motor for just the right speed but to keep it there for ten or fifteen minutes. Certainly no one wants to sit at the wheel, with the car in the open, and keep the motor running at fast idle.

Hand controls of the throttle were given up not only because they represent a slight increase in manufacturing costs but largely because they were sometimes a hazard in the hands of the inexperienced. A driver might pull the control part way out to fast idle the engine and then start off without returning the throttle to the slow idling speed. In slowing down he would then be giving the brakes considerable extra work. Hand throttle control isn't desirable with automatic transmissions.

Variations In Dust
The manufacturer of one of the most widely used polishing cloths for cars tells me that one type of cloth won't be equally effective in all territories. This is because there is such a wide difference in the composition of dust. Where a cloth is treated chemicals should match the dust for best results. It explains why a car seems to be so much easier to keep clean in one part of the country than in another.

Before automatic transmissions came into the picture mechanics were firm on the point that an engine should not idle slower than a car speed of six miles per hour. Remember this if you are trying to cut idling further to prevent creeping.

If the car suddenly steers erratically, showing a marked tendency to want to wander from one side of the road to the other, stop immediately. You may find one of the rear tires going flat.

It is a matter of courtesy to drop headlights beams when nearing the top of a hill. Drivers coming up the other side may be blinded.

Cramps Its Style
It is not unusual to have car owners ask if a bent tail pipe will have any adverse effect on the efficiency of the engine. Latest query comes from a driver who accidentally backed his car against a boulder, bending the pipe to a nearly closed position. He says that while the exhaust is very noisy he doesn't notice any loss of hill climbing power.

Of course, this means that the tail pipe has been broken somewhere along the line because the pinched pipe would act as a shut-off valve to increase back pressure. Possibly in hitting the end of the tail pipe the muffler end was opened up.

Having Their Troubles

Q In taking a vacuum gauge reading of the efficiency of the engine of my car I notice a little fluttering when the motor idles. Does this indicate weak valve springs? K. L. M.

A You remind me of people who are forever sticking a thermometer in their mouth to see if they have a fever. That slight fluttering is normal.

Q There's a peculiar noise in the speedometer of my car. It seems to be right in the unit on the instrument panel. J. M.

A Check first to see if the tip at the end of the cable is properly seated in the drive gear of the speedometer.

Q I have checked into everything that might cause wear on the right rear tire. Thinking that this might be a defective shoe I switched to the spare and now find that this is giving trouble, too. The rear axle housing is not sprung. Wm. L. F.

A Just on a hunch, check the right rear spring which may have loose U-bolts.

Q After eight years of perfect action the transmission of my car is now giving trouble, the gears failing to synchronize when I shift out of high into second. I suppose I am in for a service job on the gears. Can the synchronizers be replaced? J. F. D.

A You would get this situation if the clutch failed to release completely. So you may find that it is the clutch rather than the transmission that is in need of attention. Synchronizers can be replaced, if necessary. Sometimes they need a good flushing along with the entire transmission.

Q Whenever I apply the brakes the steering doesn't seem right. A check-up on the brakes shows that they are equalized. K. W. McK.

A An alignment job may show that one of the steering knuckles is bent.

Q Several teeth were found to be broken off the large gear on the flywheel. Discovered this when the engine would not crank. I do not want this to happen again. What caused it? S. L.

A Having the ignition timing too far advanced will cause a damaging backfire. So will pre-ignition. Too much carbon is a common cause of such preignition.

Q Is there any special risk in allowing the battery's solution level to get too low, other than a chance for the plates to buckle? G. S. K.

A One of the common results of such neglect is sulphation of plates.

Q The gas gauge pointer sticks, but there is no binding against the glass over the gauge. H. H. N.

A The unit will have to be replaced.

SPEEDERS CHARGED

WHY ROGUE BRAMBLE FRUITS?

Dictionaries define the word "rogue" as ... to pull up, cut out or otherwise remove unsatisfactory plants or parts of plants. When applied to bramble fruits — raspberries, blackberries, and dewberries — this operation generally refers to practices necessary to control certain species of cane borers and to eradicate virus diseases. It may be helpful to add that virus diseases live solely in the plant's sap and because of that fact cannot be reached by any known sprays or dusts.

The raspberry cane borer attacks young tips of raspberry plants. The first evidence of its presence is a sudden wilting of the cane tip. Closer examination then reveals two circles of tiny punctures in the bark about five or six inches below the tip. These circles are about one-half inch apart. They are made by the female beetle. She has deposited her egg within the area between the circles and these punctures are made so that the continued growth of the tip will be checked in order to prevent the egg from being crushed. Unless the wilted tip is cut off at once and burned, the egg will hatch and the borer will work its way down inside the cane to the crown. Cut the tip off an inch or more below the telltale girdles.

The red-necked cane borer may infest raspberry, blackberry, and dewberry plants, particularly the new canes. It causes swellings or galls that greatly reduce berry yields. Bramble growers who practice the sound and profitable course of pruning out all old or bearing canes soon after berries are harvested seldom have any trouble from this pest. But it is, of course, wise to rogue out and burn the entire cane where swellings indicate the red-necked borer is present.

Tree crickets occasionally injure bramble fruits in this latitude, chiefly by the female's habit of depositing a vertical row of eggs in canes. Both Raspberry and Bordeaux mixture and lead arsenate helps greatly to reduce the point of puncture. The cricket nymphs (young) and adults otherwise perform benefits by feeding on plant lice. The recommended pre-blossom spray of Bordeaux mixture and lead arsenate helps greatly to reduce the cricket population. Cutting out and burning canes already stricken by the egg-laying punctures will likewise aid. This should be done in late May.

Among virus diseases affecting bramble fruits and requiring careful roguing as a means of control are mosaic, streak, and leaf curl. There are several types of mosaic, varying in particular symptoms and severity according to weather and environmental conditions. Mottling of leaf color, dwarfing, and puckering are characteristic general symptoms.

Streak is often known as blue-stem or rosette. It is confined chiefly to black raspberries, although a few isolated cases are reported among purple raspberries. So far as the editor knows, red raspberries are not affected. Infected leaves roll downward, with the tip bent sharply backward.

Leaf curl symptoms may be confused with those of streak but in leaf curl the curling of leaf margins is more acute.

Because plant lice may carry any of these virus diseases from stricken to healthy plants, it is important to rogue out and burn plants (roots along with canes and foliage) at the first signs of infection. The entire plant is doomed anyway.

The editor invites all related bramble fruit questions.

FACTS ABOUT BEAN BEETLES

Few other insect enemies of the garden take a heavier and more needless toll of food crops than the well known Mexican bean beetle. Here is a foe that has been invading northern gardens for many years. Several completely effective insecticides have been devised for its control. Yet, year after year home gardeners allow this invader to destroy their bean crops or either abandon all efforts to grow beans. Why?

For some inexplicable reason most gardeners prefer to "experiment" with hear-say control measures in efforts to rout the Mexican bean beetle than to employ a true-and-tried insecticide that gains full control for commercial growers and home gardeners who play the game according to the rules. Here two phases of bean beetle control are stressed — prevention and direct combat. The editor urges gardeners to study the following facts carefully.

Mexican bean beetles live over winter as adults, hibernated beneath weeds and other vegetative refuse in and near the garden. Of course, cleaning up such litter in the fall and utilizing it on the compost heap gains two ends — turns waste vegetation into soil-improving organic matter and takes away the beetle's over-winter shelter.

Most birds feed on the adult beetles, larvae (orange-colored young), and eggs. The decline of birdlife is one of the reasons why this pest has become so numerous. Adult beetles easily fly from garden to garden and from farm to farm. Therefore, effective combat of this foe is by every conceivable concept a neighborhood task in which all gardeners and farmers should plan and pursue a well-planned campaign.

In outlining direct combat measures, too much emphasis cannot be placed on two factors which are responsible for most failures to control this pest. First, unless war is started when the first beetles appear on the bean plants and the females begin to lay their eggs, the grower will likely find his enemies so numerous in a week or two that control is all but impossible. Second, if insecticides are applied only on the top surfaces of the leaves the gardener may better sit in the shade and let the insects destroy his beans. They will do that anyway and by remaining in the shade he saves the wasted insecticide.

Both the adult beetles and the spiny-covered larvae feed almost exclusively on the under sides of the leaves, rarely eating through the top membrane. Thus, the insecticide must be applied to coat their food — the under side of the leaves.

Inspect bean plants daily and crush the masses of yellow eggs. This is literally wholesale control because each egg mass represents

WM. FARNUM, 76, SCREEN IDOL DIES

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Death from cancer and uremia has taken William Farnum, 76, square-jawed stage and silent-screen idol remembered for one of the most famous fight scenes ever filmed. The silver-haired actor, who remained clear-eyed and witty despite a year of illness, succumbed yesterday in a hospital.

The husky actor, born in Boston on July 4, 1876—the centennial of the Declaration of Independence, he was proud to point out—made his stage debut at 16 with a Shakespearean group.

He was a ranking matinee idol when he came to Hollywood in 1914 and appeared in a film version of a Rex Beach novel, "The Spoilers." His first movie, despite many later successes, was destined to be his best-remembered. It featured his fearsome, knock-down brawl with actor Tom Santschi—still the standard by which movie fights are judged.

Do not experiment with hear-say cures. Use rotenone. Farm supply dealers sell a powder form ready to apply. This is entirely safe to use even after pods are forming. Do not follow advice to use DDT on beans. It is too dangerous. There is also a spray form of rotenone, not the powder form, but a concentrate made for preparing sprays. This is equally effective and is particularly advisable if wind is blowing when the application is made.
